

SUNSOAKED CROWD AT CREEKSIDE was a welcome sight yesterday in Stokes Mill region of Brodheads Creek. Literally hundreds of young men and women swarmed to the banks of the creek. And why not? It was by all odds the biggest scorcher of the fledgling Summer season. Like all sun-seekers, the crowd brought its own customary equipment—bottles of lotion, insect repellent, inflated innertubes, heat-weary dispositions.

BRAND NEW BEACH at Stokes Mill was created by high waters last August. Until then banks along Brodheads were mainly rock. Surging waters piled in hundreds of tons of fine-grained sand. New deposit makes Stokes Mill section almost like ocean side.

Here Helen Klatt, Pittston; Gwen Armitage, and Richard Reichard Jr., both of Allentown, all students at State Teachers College, take time out to enjoy the sun.

Temperatures In County Over 90

NINETY-DEGREE TEMPERATURE readings were commonplace throughout Monroe County yesterday.

An official maximum reading of 91 was taken by William Hagerty, weather observer in Stroudsburg, yesterday afternoon.

In Mount Pocono, the official observer there, Harry E. Greene, reported a high of 90 degrees at 3:30 p. m. In lieu of complete records, Greene said he would assume this was a record for the date.

He noted that Mount Pocono seldom has a 90-degree reading and then only in July or August.

Greene reported a 87.2-degree maximum on Wednesday. Yesterday's humidity was 37, comparatively low but a few degrees above Wednesday.

It was hot at a number of other places yesterday. Scranton reported 95 and Allentown 93.

Record Set In New York

NEW YORK, June 14 (P)—The temperature jumped to 96.1 degrees today, the hottest June 14 in the records of the Weather Bureau.

Twenty minutes after the high was established at 1:40 p. m., the mercury fell three-tenths of a degree to 95.8. The previous record for the date was 91, established in 1892.

Postal Rates Increase Bill Runs Aground

WASHINGTON, June 14 (P)—The

Eisenhower administration's bill to increase postal rates ran aground in the House today, apparently finished for this session of Congress. Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts announced he has no intention of putting the measure on the House's legislative program. He added he "hoped" no Democrat would attempt to force it to the floor.

There was little if any expectation of such a Democratic move. Speaker Rayburn of Texas also is against the bill's provision to raise the mailing charge on ordinary letters from three to four cents.

Backing
The administration had backed the measure, containing a variety of proposed rate increases, as a way to eliminate the bulk of the annual Post Office budget deficit. The department now runs about $20 million dollars in the red.

Rep. Cederberg (R-Mich.) told the House Congress would be "derelict in its duties unless it meets the deficit head on."

With the House leadership so firm, however, the issue appeared shunted off until next year. A number of lawmakers had suggested previously the administration stood little chance of persuading Congress to raise postal rates in an election year.

Among other things, opponents of an increase have argued the post office performs a public service which shouldn't require a strict balancing of income against cost.

Union Officials Study Increase

NEW YORK, June 14 (P)—Union officials today mulled over a "Big Steel" offer reputed to include pay raises and other concessions in return for a five-year "no strike" contract.

Union officials and staff experts will place the offer before the 170-member wage policy committee of the United Steelworkers of America tomorrow at 10 a. m.

"... I call it my Classified Ad stew—it's full of everything!"

Committee Votes Increase In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, June 14 (P)—The

Senate Foreign Relations Committee buoyed administration hopes for additional foreign aid money today. It voted to put back more than half the $1,100,000,000 slashed by the House from President Eisenhower's request.

Republicans carried the key 9-5 vote for the administration, six of the seven GOP members on the committee approving the restoration of 600 million dollars for military aid. There was no head count on a later decision to add 15 million to European "defense support" funds.

The committee thus recommended a total of 615 millions more than the $3,800,000,000 authorized by the House.

Position
Its action strengthened Eisenhower's position for the floor fight certain to flare when the aid bill reaches the full Senate, probably next week.

Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas, not a member of the committee, had said earlier the President was "in deep trouble" in his plea for additional aid money. Johnson said most Democrats with whom he talked feel the administration has failed to make a case for any increase in the House figure.

Eisenhower originally sought authority to spend $4,900,000,000 in the year starting July 1 for military and economic assistance to friendly nations. He appealed to the Senate this week to give back a large amount of the House cut. Administration leaders said they needed at least 600 millions of it.

Sen. Green (D-R.I.) proposed today that the committee reinstate a full billion dollars. He lost, 8-4, getting support from only Chairman George (D-Ga.), Sens. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) and Capehart (R-Ind.).

Knowland
Republican Leader Knowland of California then moved to restore 600 millions for military help abroad.

Voting with Knowland were George, Green, Smith, Capehart, Sparkman (D-Ala.), Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), Aiken (R-Vt.), and Wiley (R-Wis.).

Against the increase were Sens. Langer (R-ND), Fulbright (D-Ark), Mansfield (D-Mont), Morse (D-Ore) and Long (D-La.).

Honeymooning Husband Plunges Mile To Death

SHELBY, N. C., June 14 (P)—A

35-year-old bride-widow completed plans today for burying her husband of one day who last night plunged to his death from an airliner while on a honeymoon flight.

Investigators today declined to disclose their findings.

Water
Mrs. Oren A. Pruitt of Charlotte, said her 38-year-old husband went to the rear of the plane to get her a drink of water. "I'll get you some water. I'll get you anything in the world," she said he told her.

Moments later he plunged through the drop-type door of the DC3 Piedmont airliner falling a mile to his death. His body landed in a cemetery about five miles north of Shelby.

Cost Main Obstacle In Construction Of Bridges

Service Loses Round In Court Battle

WASHINGTON, June 14 (P)—John

Stewart Service, one of the targets of Sen. McCarthy's Communists-in-government charges, lost another round today in his fight to regain his State Department job.

The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled against the veteran foreign service officer's plea for reinstatement, but erased a finding of "reasonable doubt" as to his loyalty.

Service, a career officer for more than 18 years, was fired summarily in 1951 by former Secretary of State Dean Acheson. The discharge came on the same day the now defunct Loyalty Review Board found a "reasonable doubt" as to his loyalty.

Opinion
The appellate court's unanimous opinion written by Judge Walter M. Bastian, upheld a ruling June 30, 1955, by U. S. Dist. Judge Edward M. Curran.

Curran held—and the appellate court agreed—that Service was validly discharged under the so-called McCarran rider to the State Department's appropriation bill. This gave the secretary "absolute discretion" to end the services of any employee whenever he deemed it "necessary or advisable in the interest of the United States."

Acheson, in a sworn statement filed in connection with Service's suit, said he decided to fire Service "solely as the result of the finding of the Loyalty Review Board and as a result of my review of the opinion of that board."

In ordering the finding of "doubtful loyalty" expunged, both Judge Curran and the appellate court cited a 1955 Supreme Court decision in the case of the late Dr. John P. Peters, a Yale medical professor. In that decision the high court held that the Loyalty Review Board had no authority to reopen a case in which a lower loyalty board had found for the employee.

McCarthy's charges set off a series of State Department investigations of Service's loyalty. Twice he was cleared by departmental boards.

Jane Froman Wins Divorce

LAS VEGAS, Nev., June 14 (P)—The

storybook marriage of singing star Jane Froman ended in court today when she divorced the airline pilot who saved her life in a crash in Portugal 12 years ago.

She accused John Curtis Burn, her second husband, of desertion. The marriage, in Coral Gables, Fla., March 12, 1948, was Burn's first. Miss Froman had been divorced from Donald Rose.

bridges—including the two on Route 611 between Bartonsville and Tannersville—were washed out in the August 1955 flood ten months ago.

These two bridges have not been replaced by temporary structures. A detour was constructed around the sites instead.

Lawler made the comment as he defended the record of his department before an audience at the Pennsylvania Motor Federation's 50th annual convention. It was held at Pocono Manor.

Lawler also said: "The State intends to recommend that the Sharon-Stroudsburg Shortway be made a part of the 40,000-mile proposed interstate highways system. This system will be built with Federal aid."

His department hopes to get "about 254 miles" of Pennsylvania highways into the interstate system.

He charged that standards in the bridge division of the Department of Highways in Harrisburg were obsolete when the present administration took over.

Lawler made his comment on getting local roads and bridges back in shape in response to a question from John S. Giles, chairman of the AAA Highway Committee.

Giles asked: "What are you doing about these bridges down here into the Poconos?" He went on to say that lack of bridges would affect business in the area.

Lawler replied that "what God could do in one minute or one hour we cannot undo in many hours." He said the State had "lost 186 bridges in the last hurricane."

He said that highway department plans have to be coordinated with plans of the Federal Public Roads Division and the State Department of Forests and Waters.

Lawler said he had heard criticism that no temporary bridges were constructed on Route 611 between Bartonsville and Tannersville.

He said that the "emergency no longer existed" and that "we'd have had to advertise for bids to build temporary bridges." He said the cost would have been about $180,000 and he didn't think any taxpayers would want the State to spend that much money on temporary structures.

For this reason, he went on, the State is "going ahead with permanent bridges."

Two Truman Officials Found Guilty

ST. LOUIS, June 14 (P)—Two top

Truman administration officials, Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, sat motionless today as they heard a federal jury convict them of conspiring to help an income tax dodger.

The conviction could mean as much as five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine for both Connelly, 48-year-old White House appointments secretary under former President Truman, and the 52-year-old Caudle, one-time Justice Department tax head.

U. S. Dist. Judge Ruben M. Hulen set their sentencing for July 19. He said he would also hear motions that day and the defense indicated it would seek a new trial.

Tense
Connelly, neatly dressed in a gray suit, tried to avoid newsmen as he walked from the courtroom. Friendly with them throughout the trial, he appeared grim and tense.

"No comment, boys," was all he would say as he hurried from the federal building.

Caudle was obviously shocked, too. At first he wouldn't talk but when he regained his composure he said:

"I know I am an innocent man, convicted for something I never did. I will face my God, my sweet children and my friends when my time comes. I have no apologies for anything I have done."

Strike Of New York Subways Runs Nine Uncertain Hours

NEW YORK, June 14 (P)—The first all-out subway strike in New York's history hit the nation's biggest transit system today with stunning suddenness. It lasted more than nine hours, crippling all three lines.

A vast, perilous crush of humanity built up underground during the evening rush hour. But it finally was dispersed without death, injury or panic.

On a steaming day of 96.1-degree record heat, eight million New Yorkers were confronted with a transportation system that was badly fouled from Coney Island to the Bronx, from Times Square to the distant sections of Queens.

Bus Lines
With the subways crippled, hundreds of thousands of stranded riders besieged bus lines, taxis and trains. Gigantic traffic tieups occurred as private cars were pressed into service to get people about the city.

But the real drama of the historic strike was unfolded in dimly lit subway platforms deep beneath New York's skyscrapers.

There hundreds of thousands of men, women and children—near-prostration from the stifling heat—milled around in spectacular confusion, seeking trains that never came.

The Transit Authority, which operates the subway lines under state mandate, finally waived the punitive provisions of a state anti-strike law to get the motormen back to work.

The law calls for the dismissal of subway strikers. The Transit Authority, however, agreed to take back any motormen wanting to work—including more than 100 suspended during a hectic day of vast confusion.

Meyner Signs Budget

President Continues Improvement

WASHINGTON, June 14 (P)—Three medical bulletins today reported President Eisenhower coming along well, and getting to drink some tea, warm water and beef broth in small amounts.

A highlight of the day was a visit from Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, to whom the President voiced hope for the "liberation" of 17 million Germans from "Soviet Communist rule."

There was also a continued refusal by press secretary James C. Hagerty to discuss any questions about a second term, so long as the President remains in Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Refusal
Hagerty refused to relay to Eisenhower a question as to whether his new illness may lead the President to reconsider his Feb. 29 decision to run for re-election.

Hagerty also refused to discuss in detail a newspaper columnist's report that some medical authorities say ileitis often recurs. Ileitis is the intestinal ailment for which Eisenhower was operated on Saturday.

The text of the 5:15 p. m. bulletin:

"The President's condition continues to progress satisfactorily. His pulse, blood pressure, temperature and respiration continue stable and essentially normal."

"He again rested and catnapped most of the afternoon."

"During the afternoon he had small amounts of liquid by mouth as well as intravenous feedings."

"The President has had a comfortable day and his spirits and morale remain high."

The morning visit with Adenauer lasted 10 minutes. The German leader said afterward that it was possible because they had "a healthy organism" to work with.

Hagerty refused to comment on quotations from a medical journal and an insurance manual saying that ileitis frequently recurs even after surgery.

The quotations were carried in a syndicated column by Doris Fleeson. The writer suggested these views should be weighed along with statements made by Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton.

second time in as many days, the mercury soared to a torrid 91 degrees here today and shattered a Scranton Weather Bureau record. The hottest previous June 14 was in 1945 when the mercury reached 90 degrees.

Within minutes after record was set today an electrical and hail storm swept the region and pushed the temperature down 25 degrees in 30 minutes.

Limit Placed On Traffic Diversion

THE BATTLE of Ann St. ended yesterday in a truce.

Neither side in the war over diversion of traffic could claim a clear-cut victory.

In a compromise agreement attorneys signed a stipulation which says that Burgess Hal H. Harris is limited in his efforts to divert traffic off Main St. onto Ann.

President Judge Fred W. Davis signed a final decree in accord with the stipulation agreed to by Joseph McCluskey and Harold C. Edwards, attorneys for the plaintiff and the defendant.

The agreement says: Burgess Harris is not allowed to divert traffic from October 15 to the last of May.

Summer
He can divert traffic beginning on June 1 to October 15 each Thursday, Friday and Saturday between the hours of 9 in the morning and 6 at night.

He is "enjoined and restrained" from using police officers or "any other device" to divert traffic except during the above days and hours.

Judge Davis' decree was apparently the final step in a complaint against Harris by William Tarr, Chipperfield Terrace, a trucking firm owner.

Tarr maintained that diversion of his trucks onto Ann St. and off Main St. would cause "immediate and irreparable loss and damage" to his vehicles. He said Ann St. was in a "deplorable" condition.

On Wednesday witnesses testified that diverting the traffic caused added congestion rather than alleviating it.

Among the witnesses heard were trucking firm operators other than Tarr, county and borough officials. One of the main points of difference between the opposing sides revolved around whether the Burgess has the right to divert traffic acting by himself or if he must act in union with a "police committee."

The texts of the stipulation and the final decree indicated that the Burgess does have that right.

Full Text
The full text of the final decree is nearly identical to that of the stipulation. The first paragraph of the stipulation reads:

"And now, June 14, 1956, J. Joseph McCluskey, Esq., Attorney for Plaintiff, and Harold C. Edwards, Esq., Attorney for Defendant, hereby stipulate and agree that the above case be settled as follows:"

The text of the second paragraph in each document is the same. It reads:

"That Hal H. Harris, Burgess of the Borough of Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, be enjoined and restrained from placing police officers, or using any other device, at the corner of Ninth and Main Sts. in the Borough of Stroudsburg, and at the corner of Seventh and Ann Sts. in the aforesaid borough, for the purpose of diverting trucks, trailers and semi-trailers from Highway Routes Nos. 611 and 209, except during the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week from June 1 to October 15."

OUT OF THE PAST: ANTIQUATED HIGHWAYS. Panel of experts at Pennsylvania Motor Federation convention at Pocono Manor agreed that America's highway network is obsolete. After discussion was over, State highways secretary Joseph J. Lawler, climbed in driver's seat of this 1903 Cadillac for gag shot which helped make a main point — cars have gone far, but highway construction has lagged behind. In front seat with Lawler is R. Leroy Dengler, president of Pocono Mountains Club. In back seat is John Crandall, PMMC veep and one of the delegates to convention.

State Highway Retiring School Authority To Live In Stroudsburg Estimates Show Change

STATE HIGHWAYS Secretary Joseph J. Lawler said yesterday that the original estimate of highway needs in Pennsylvania, submitted in 1954, was completely inadequate.

Lawler made the comment during a panel discussion of proposed Federal-aided interstate highway construction. It was held at the 50th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation at Pocono Manor.

The highway department head said that the Republican administration in Harrisburg had estimated that $750,000,000 would cover State needs.

"Since this administration took over in Harrisburg, we have made three studies. We feel that Pennsylvania needs about $1,440,000,000 instead of the original estimate," Lawler said.

He went on to say that the administration favors the Gore formula in processing funds allocated as Federal aid. This formula—proposed by Sen. Gore, Tenn.—bases payments on population. The current formula (called the Fulton bill) would base allocations on need for highways in states alone.

Lawler said the State has been "making every effort in dealing with Congress" to have the Gore formula adopted. Another panel member—Gen. Lacey V. Murrow, Washington, D. C., a AAA consultant—emphasized that the program deals with a "complete system" and "it has to be based on need."

The panel members seemed to agree, however, that it is likely the Gore formula will be used for a short period—possibly two or three years. Murrow pointed out that some sparsely-populated States still must build highway systems to take care of motor travel from other States.

The Federal highway bill would point toward construction of a 40,000 mile interstate highway system. The construction would be done on a cost-sharing basis. The probable ratio of payment will be 90 percent paid by the U. S.; 10 percent by the State.

In its present form, the proposed legislation is largely the result of work done by the American Automobile Association and its affiliates throughout the nation. For the past three decades motor groups have been lobbying for a Federally-subsidized plan of some kind for highways.

Another panel expert, Kermit Rykken, AAA special assistant, warned the audience that if highway programs are to be expedited, "highway engineers will have to learn to standardize." Rykken called bridge engineers "prima donnas" and said that they have been "bottlenecks" in the fight to speed up highway construction for years.

Rykkens estimated that modern interstate highways can save 3,000 human lives each year. He said other benefits including a decrease in property damage—will become obvious.

Retiring School Authority To Live In Stroudsburg

A CONNECTICUT CITIZEN and his family known here and who are soon to become Stroudsburg residents are making interesting news in the press of that state as noted by several releases.

Ernest N. Roselle, known to a number of local citizens, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, and the father of Mrs. Walter Wyckoff, is retiring on June 15 from the superintendency of the internationally known Southbury Training School. Mr. and Mrs. Roselle will come at once to Stroudsburg to make their home here until November when they will go to Florida for the winter and on their return next spring hope to build a home in Stroudsburg.

Roselle, who is closing 20 years with the Training School, assisted its Board of Trustees in 1936 in selecting a 1,500-acre site for the school following which he spent four years in developing the school's philosophy and planning its plant and program. The plant, built at a cost of $10,000,000 and consisting of a 300-acre campus of 99 buildings and a 1,200-acre farm, has become widely known as the most complete school in the world for retarded children. Roselle has been its superintendent since its completion in 1940.

Tamiment Makes Award To Teacher

NEW YORK, June 14—A 31-year old composer has won the $1,000 Tamiment String Quartet Composition contest for 1956. Milan Kaderavek, teacher of music at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, was named the winner of the contest by a jury composed of Dimitri Mitropoulos, conductor of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, Boris Goldovsky of the New England Conservatory of Music, and the members of the Curtis String Quartet.

In addition to the cash prize, the Tamiment award includes a premiere performance of the prize-winning work by the Curtis String Quartet at the Tamiment Chamber Music Festival held at Tamiment, Pennsylvania, June 21 through 24.

Chicago Native

Kaderavek is a native of the Chicago area and studied at the American Conservatory of Music in that city. His composition teacher there was Leo Sowerby. His "Poems for Orchestra" have been performed by the Gary (Indiana) Symphony Orchestra. Kaderavek, in addition to his teaching and composition, is an instrumentalist, having performed on a variety of wind instruments.

Mitropoulos, in consenting to judge the contest, hailed the Tamiment chamber music competition for "offering our American composers encouragement and recognition for their efforts in the field of chamber music." The annual Tamiment Institute contest normally awards a $500 prize, but the award was doubled this year because the jury found no composition in 1955 that merited the award.

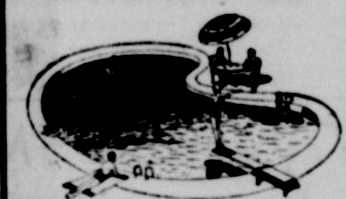

Information about the Tamiment Chamber Music Festival may be obtained from the Tamiment Institute, 7 East 15th St., N. Y.

Tocks Island Study To Begin Tuesday

WORK on the sub-surface study of land structures below Tocks Island will begin Tuesday.

Howard I. Brundage, geologist in the Geophysical Survey Division, Gahagan Dredging Corp., New York, told The Daily Record this last night. Gahagan Corp. has been hired by the Corps of Engineers to study the Tocks Island locality as a possible site for a water control dam.

Brundage and Paul Sherry, the geologist who will be directly in charge of the local project, arrived in Stroudsburg yesterday. The two men took a preliminary trip around the area between Deputy Island and Foxon Island in the Delaware.

Survey Spot

It is this four-mile stretch in the river with which the early survey will be concerned.

Brundage said that seismic soundings probably will begin on Tuesday. A seismic test consists of measurement, by sound waves, of the depth of rock and other material in the valley along the river.

Information collected from these tests will be correlated with added knowledge gained from "borings" into the earth sub-surface. From a composite of information from these two sources, geologists will be able to determine the feasibility of a large dam in the immediate area.

The Gahagan company has agreed to make an early report to the Philadelphia District office of the Corps of Engineers by mid-September.

Extremely small dynamite charges are used in the seismic tests. The charge consists of only about one pound of powder. Explosive sounds made by the charge are not loud. The sound is amplified down through the strata of

Flood Control Long-Range Project That Merits Fullest Cooperation

Two matters bearing on flood control in the Delaware Valley made news this week. The Army Corps of Engineers announced it had awarded a contract for the sub-surface investigation of Tocks Island to Gahagan Dredging Corp. of New York City.

In another development, the Army Engineers disclosed that a preliminary report on their flood control survey for Broadheads Creek should be ready by the end of June.

Both announcements were in the nature of progress reports. Flood control for both the river and its tributaries is a major undertaking and requires long periods for planning before actual steps are taken to put the plans into effect.

For this reason, we might become inclined toward impatience if the work does not proceed at a pace which will bring about immediate protection against the ravages of high water.

But so long as the Army Engineers and the State Department of Forests and Waters make an earnest effort to expedite flood control on a coordinated basis, as the local projects have been set up, the least the people of the entire Delaware River Valley can do is to cooperate with the agencies in smoothing the way for speedy implementation of the work.

In this connection, the engineers indicated their study to determine feasibility of a proposed dam at Tocks Island may be delayed by refusal of a few property owners to permit geologists to conduct seismic tests on private land.

Flood control for the entire valley transcends the selfish interests of any one individual or section. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the government agencies will receive the fullest cooperation from the owners of properties where they must make their soundings and borings. The possibility of resorting to court action to force the issue is something that is to be abhorred by the majority of citizens—those who are relying on the agencies to set up the soundest flood control program possible.

Army Engineers emphasized in testimony given at a public hearing here that a dam at Tocks Island would provide the river valley with the best possible protection against floods.

Flood control on a large scale must be financed almost wholly by Federal funds. No project can be approved for aid unless the need can be justified on a dollar and cents basis. The engineers said that a dam at Wallpack Bend would qualify as a means of impounding water for use in dry seasons downstream, but such a dam would not help much in controlling floods.

On the other hand, a dam at Tocks Island would hold back a much greater volume of water and therefore serve a dual purpose. It would impound water for industrial and home use as well as provide flood protection.

The Daily Record implores every property owner involved to give his fullest cooperation to the Army Engineers and the Gahagan company representatives so that the feasibility of the dam may be determined without delay.

Congratulations Extended To Army On 181st Anniversary Of Founding

Yesterday was Flag Day. It was also the 181st anniversary of the United States Army. Since 1775 the Army has served the American people with courage, dexterity and unwavering devotion. It has distinguished itself in war and in peace and displayed integrity in the trust placed upon it.

Today our country faces a threat of incomparable magnitude brought on by vast technological developments of recent years and open aggressiveness of the Communist world. Such a massive peril to our freedom places a major responsibility on the Army as a vital part of America's defensive strength.

As the struggle for freedom's survival becomes more and more acute, the Army must stand as an invulnerable, mobile force. It must be fully capable of either preventing war or defeating our enemies in land combat in any type conflict using all the facilities available.

How well it performs this arduous mission is a challenge to every individual in the U. S. Army. Those who face this important challenge have a sacred honor and proud tradition to uphold and preserve. The faith entrusted to them is our national security and the Army must be unfailing in discharging this high duty.

On this anniversary occasion, The Daily Record joins with segments of the Pocono Mountains in extending our heartiest congratulations to all who serve the Army and the nation.

George Sokolsky Says...

Rejection Of Foreign Aid Request Shows Congress Determined To Retain Authority

The separation of powers, inherent in our Constitution, cannot possibly mean a conflict over powers between the President and Congress and the Supreme Court. Yet such a conflict over powers has developed during the Eisenhower Administration.

A deliberate effort has been made to reduce Congress to a ratifying body, accepting instructions from the President, issued not directly by him but by his various assistants. His illnesses have nothing to do with the growth of power among the White House staff. It is a theory of governmental operations arising out of the President's military experience and based on the assumption that what works in the Army can work in civil life. The rejection of such instructions over the foreign aid issue was the first assertion by the House of Representatives during this Administration that it intends to function according to the Constitution. It was a major political setback for President Eisenhower, but that is hardly as important, one way or the other, as that Constitutional, orderly government should prevail.

The British parliamentary system functions more effectively, even in a period of crisis, than our division of power system under the Constitution. The French parliamentary system sometimes does not function at all because of proportional representation which lessens responsibility. The American method, when first designed, was an inevitable consequence of colonial history and of the fact that this is a federation of sovereign states, each state possessing all powers of government except such as are granted to the Federal government by the Constitution. War and economic depressions encouraged public opinion to permit an expansion of Federal authority which really resulted in an expansion of Presidential authority.

No state may secede from the Union as a consequence of the War Between the States which was fought on that issue just as World War II was fought over the sanctity of treaties! On the other hand, the Constitution should protect the states from usurpation of power either by the President or the Congress. In a word, the states must depend upon the Supreme Court to defend their rights. Whenever the Supreme Court has exceeded its Constitutional authority and has become a third house of Congress, legislating by judicial decision, the confusion in the land has become very tense. Such tension now exists in both South and North over the Negro question. Although some of the decisions of the present Supreme Court over Communist cases have been as much an invasion of the Constitutional rights of the states, they did not stir much excitement.

Except in the South, the expansion of the authority of the Supreme Court during the past year made hardly any impression. In fact, the Stohovner decision was probably the most significant invasion of local authority by the Supreme Court and, in the opinion of many lawyers, the Court showed a lack of understanding of what is involved in their decision which is that a state legislature may not lay down the rules governing the employment of persons by the state or any agency thereof, such as a municipality or a Board of Education. If the Supreme Court is correct in this decision, what employment policy may a state, municipality or Board of Education adopt?

The Executive has adopted an attitude toward Congress with regard to the provision of information which is obviously unsound and is, under any other system, untenable. How can Congress legislate without data and if the Executive is to withhold data, either Congress must legislate on order of the Executive or must withhold authorization for funds until the data is provided. It is usual, in the British system, for responsible ministers to answer questions in Parliament, although Sir Anthony Eden refused to answer questions about the Frogman accused on spying on a Russian ship.

The illegal practice of some Executive departments to keep unexpended balances, which under any correct bookkeeping system should be returned to the Treasury, is indicative of the Executive distrust of Congress. The departments which withhold unexpended balances, often by incorrect accounting methods, assume that such funds may be used for purposes other than Congressional appropriations, which is clearly against the law.

This Constitutional situation must sooner or later lead to adjustment or to a breakdown of Constitutional government because any Executive official can expand his powers without fear unless either the Courts or the People object.

Party Planks and Autoists

What goes in Connecticut? Some politicians there have come out for a state plank g u aranteeing the autoist relief from a campaign against killer autoists! Governor Ribicoff in waging a really effective war on reckless drivers suspends licenses of convicted highway baddies under the slogan "Those who won't slow down to save lives will slow down to save licenses!" Republican leaders talk of a plank saying, "No person shall lose his right to drive, or an opportunity to earn a livelihood, except after a full and fair hearing." Since no licenses are suspended except after court convictions is this a rap at the courts? And how about a plank reading, "No person shall be denied his right to live or to walk uncrimped by a heedless opy pilot?"

Mental Health Problems Are Like Physical Ones

Last year Americans contributed more than $100 million to voluntary health causes. . . . Of every dollar contributed, a little over one cent went for the biggest problem of all—mental illness.

. . . . For the 101,000 polio cases—gifts received averaged $509 per patient For 500,000 cases of tuberculosis—$46 per patient For 545,000 cases of cancer—$36 per patient

But for the 9 million cases of mental and nervous disorders? Only 11 cents per patient. And it is believed that 85 per cent of mental patients could be cured if only they were treated early enough.

These are figures taken from the campaign of mental health associations in each state. Half of all hospital beds in some states are occupied by mental patients. One single disease—schizophrenia—accounts for almost half of all mental patients. An estimated 10 per cent of school children are emotionally disturbed and need professional help. In most cities they are not getting this help.

Most juvenile delinquents are mental health problems, and most could have been saved. There are 17,000 suicides in the U. S. each year. Two million crimes. Almost four million problem drinkers. One in four marriages ends in divorce.

One out of four "normal" individuals suffer acute emotional disorders that handicap them in their work. These are the worriers, the accident prone, the chronically discontented, over-aggressive, excessively shy.

It would seem that our lack of education about mental health is largely responsible for the meager support we give local associations studying and assisting this problem.

It is another instance of calling a thing by the wrong term. We speak of the "delinquency" problem, the "divorce" problem, the "drinking" problem—when actually they are all part of the same problem, that of emotional disorder.

We speak of building a better world in which to live, and at the same time protest local tax increases for schools. We lament bitterly that Jonathan cannot read, at the same time opposing employment of a school psychiatrist or psychologist—the chap who would determine WHY Johnny can't read. We point our right hands at the mayor, calling for stern police action toward young "criminals"—youngsters who have lived in squalid conditions and among parents unfit to be called human, much less parents—but with our left hand vote the ticket against higher wages for law enforcement, social workers and family clinics.

We are glad when our ailments are attributed to psychosomatic origin—we take that to mean they are "imaginary" and will go away as mysteriously as they came. Because emotions can cause us trouble, we blame the emotion itself rather than our handling of it. In short, we have a lot to learn about ourselves.

Your mental health association hopes that in 10 years we will have learned enough "to assure that all mental and emotional problems shall be recognized for what they are and attended to as promptly and effectively as we now attend to physical illnesses."

House GOP Solidly Behind School Desegregation Bill

Washington, June 14 — The stage is now set for the House to write an anti-segregation provision into the long-pending bill for $1,600,000,000 federal aid for school construction.

Re publican leaders of the chamber have accomplished this by two backstage moves: Securing sufficient bipartisan support to break the deadlock that has stalled the legislation for months in the Rules Committee. Obtaining commitments from virtually every one of the 202 GOP members to vote for the controversial anti-segregation amendment sponsored by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D. N. Y.)

With an estimated majority of the 231 Democratic representatives also voting that way, the united Republican line-up ensures adoption of the Powell amendment. GOP leaders are planning to force the school-aid bill out of the Rules Committee sometime next week, and have the full House take it up shortly thereafter. Once that happens, the measure is certain to be approved, an unlimited debate is not possible under House rules.

But the fate of a Powell-amended bill in the Senate is highly conjectural. Southern leaders there will leave nothing undone to block such legislation. They are in a strategic position to do that, as Congress is already tugging at the bit to wind up for the Republican and Democratic conventions in August and the hectic electioneering that will get underway almost immediately thereafter.

But in the House, Republican leaders and Powell now appear to have the parliamentary situation in hand. Working closely with Powell on his anti-segregation amendment are GOP Floor Leader Joseph Martin, Mass.; Whip Charles Halleck, Ind.; Representative Hugh Scott, Pa., former National Chairman, and Deputy Attorney General William Rogers, who drafted the four-point civil rights program that Attorney General Brownell recently submitted to Congress.

In the Bag—Rep. Martin discussed this backstage set-up with President Eisenhower just two days before he became ill. The President asked Martin about the prospects for enactment of the long-stymied school-aid measure. The former Republican Speaker explained what is being done to put the bill through the House. "I am certain we will pass it by the end of this month," said Martin. The President then inquired about the Powell amendment.

"We are going to back it to the hilt," replied Martin. "Every Republican leader of the House is agreed on that. There is not one exception among us. We hope you will either support us on that, or if you don't think that is advisable, you will say nothing about the matter." "My principal concern," said the President, "is passage of this legislation. That should have been done last year. It's long overdue. If the House leadership feels the Powell amendment should be supported, that is all right with me. I will say nothing about it either way. It is strictly a legislative problem, and I'll keep hands off until I have to act on it."

"That's all we ask, Mr. President," declared Martin. "You can be sure that virtually every Republican in the House will vote for this school bill. We have definite commitments on that from practically all of our people."

Note: A private poll of the 231 House Democrats on the bill increases proposed by the Postoffice Committee showed the following: 152 against them; 22 in favor; 57 undecided.

Completion of the memorial is under the direction of Wilson's grandson, the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre, Jr., dean of the Cathedral. Water Gap Native Enters Ministry

By Jim Riley

A native of Delaware Water Gap will enter the ministry on Sunday, but the story isn't that simple.

It's a long tale and one with an extremely odd twist.

Robert A. Beam, age 35, will become a pastor of the Methodist Church in Broomfield, Maine, a community of approximately 400 people.

Beam for the past 23 years has been manager of an auto parts sales room. He is now a resident of Hackettstown.

The new probationary minister of the gospel has been active in lay affairs in the Newark Conference of the Methodist Church for many years, but decided to launch studies for the ministry three years ago.

Beam has served as a "local preacher" in the Methodist Church and as a substitute "pastor" for other churches in Warren and Sussex counties. He studied for the ministry by corresponding with Southern Methodist University. Beam is married to the former Beatrice Barker, of Hackettstown.

Mrs. Carl Albertson, of the A. B. Wyckoff Department Store, is now in New York City attending the lingerie showing of the new Fall line.

Johnny Styk, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Styk, saw a seven-foot bear behind his home on Tuesday afternoon. The Styks live in Mountainhome.

The bear measured seven-feet, according to reports, when it rose up on its hind legs.

Deog Nelson, Farley Peetchka and Walter Peetchka, all students at Pocono High during the past school year, are now employed in the A&P Store in Mount Pocono.

Paul Ace, Stroudsburg R. D. 2 truck driver who rescued Jack Wilston from a flaming cab in Newark last week, received a beautiful letter of thanks from Mrs. Wilston the other day. The Wilstons live in Canton, O.

Jack suffered three or four fractures of the leg in the accident and is still in the hospital.

Dick Forster, teacher at East Stroudsburg Senior and Junior High School, began Summer employment with Swisher Distributing Co., Tannersville, this week.

Mrs. Clara Arnt, Bangor, left Wednesday of this week on a month's trip to California.

She is making the trip with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Arnt. John is a well known businessman in the State Belt.

The recent death of Harold Francisco, is being mourned by his many friends in the Pen Argyl region.

Harold, only 31, was a well known carpenter.

On Broadway

Jim Hagerty, Eisenhower's press aide, appears on the front pages almost as often as Mr. President.

There is genuine mutual respect between them. Ironically, the respect (and affection) was sparked by a heated disagreement. Shortly after Hagerty joined Eisenhower's staff Jim's temper flared. Following a cooling-off period he grinned: "You don't scare easily, do you?" The President then confided that when he was on Gen. MacArthur's staff he made a point of speaking up when he disagreed with his superior. Eisenhower added: "Jim, you be the same way with me and we'll get along all right."

Eisenhower's little experience with surgery was the consequence of supreme preparedness and the ultimate in foresight. When he served in Panama, he casually remarked: "This is a fine day to have your appendix removed." A fellow officer asked Ike if he felt ill. "No," he answered, "I don't even know that I have an appendix. But it might rear up and put me out of action sometime when things aren't so quiet."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

When their first child graduates from high school, mothers get all dewy-eyed, thinking of the changes in store for their darling. When their last child graduates, they start brooding about how their own life will be changed.

It's more than just the fact that they'll no longer have a part in PTA, in Music Parents, on the hot lunch committee; that they will no longer break their necks — and other engagements — to get to the plays, the concerts, the special events;

That no longer will they join the rainy-day line of cars calling for the children; that no longer will their whole day be scheduled so as to fit into the school calendar. All of those things they can probably live without.

What really hurts is that their line of communication with the younger generation has been severed. Whole generations of children will come and go and they'll never know what they're feeling, what they're saying, what mischief they're up to, what the current fads are, and who is going with whom.

The school will again become something which is supported by taxes, instead of a whole buzzing, fascinating universe of its own. The matter of who wins or loses a game will fall back into perspective instead of being of world-shaking importance.

Life will undoubtedly be easier — but also a lot more dull, and never quite so exciting again.

Fashion will "belt you one" this Fall... according to the wishful thinking of belt manufacturers. After suffering through several bad years of unbelted sheaths, the industry is now breathing with relief at the arrival on scene of a new type sheath that is softly belted at the back waistline, and is belted. Many fashion-conscious women are also beginning to use belts, whether or not a dress was actually made for one, as an eye-catching, appearance-changing accessory.

When belts are worn, they will wander. One model, for instance, wears a narrow band of leather just beneath the bust to accentuate the Empire lines of her dress. Another selects a wide leather girdle adapted from "My Fair Lady" to give her a pinched-in, corseted appearance. These new corsets are of firm leather, with interesting pierced designs, and promise to be particularly popular with the younger girls. Soft leather cummerbunds will also appear on the market, but far and away the most popular style of all will be Dior's contour belt, which has never been surpassed for figure flattery.

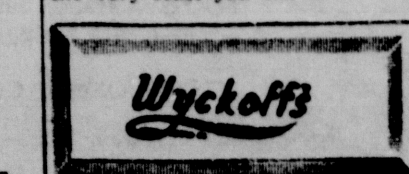

Some women will try, as always, to match their belt to their handbag, and this should be a comparatively easy feat, for handbags will come this Fall of 1956 in just about every type of fabric and texture. The smartest new handbags are wafer thin. The silhouette may be a modified diamond... hexagonal... round... or square, but the bag will be no thicker than a sandwich at the most. Just where we women will tuck all these odd and sundry things we are reputed to carry, I haven't been able to decide. May be designers will just have to put bigger and deeper pockets in our boy friends' suits. About the only way we can get any space at all in a woman's handbag this fall is to invest in the long, dash-shund look—but even this "dodgy" number is skinny. Our choice in fabrics is more extensive, however. We'll make our selections from velvet... tweed... alligator... and leathers galore. We'll see velvet clasped with lucite or gold; leather trimmed with tortoise. One of the newest textures to delight us will be "reverse calf"—which will also be known by about five other, fancier names. Black will be the most popular color in handbags.

Now for hosiery! Twin thread construction will continue as a star performer, because it wears particularly well and looks particularly sheer. Stretch stockings will be bigger favorites than ever before. If you haven't tried them, by all means do. When you consider how new they are, it is interesting and impressive to realize that 10 to 12% of the overall hosiery sales today are being done in stretch styles. Moreover, on the basis of a privately conducted survey, the hosiery industry is confident that the popularity of stretchies will continue to mushroom. Here are some of the questions asked: Do stretch stockings keep seams straight? 94% of those interviewed said yes. Would you buy them again? 86% answered affirmatively. Why? 51% cited fit and comfort as their reasons; 59% also mentioned wear. What is more, 75.1% of those questioned, stated that, after wearing stretch stockings, they could not return to any other type and be satisfied.

Which puts us neatly out on a limb, and seems to complete the fashion picture for Fall. Begin saving your pennies, darlings... because it's going to be a fabulous season. And for heaven's sake, spend those pennies at Wyckoff's. After all I've been through, it's the very least you can do!

THE RECORD

The Strouds can cut out a big niche in their bid for area diamond honors this season when they take on the leaders of the Scranton Association League next Friday in the Electric City.

Frank Radler's proteges, currently embedded in first place in the Pocono Mountains League, will meet the SA pacesetter's Petersburg Blue Devils Friday, June 22, under the lights at Schadt Stadium. Game time is 8 p.m.

While the contest is listed only as an exhibition, the tilt will go a long way in determining the type of ball played in the Scranton Association and the Pocono Mountain circuits.

Petersburg's lineup is dotted with no less than five batters who have had professional experience. A few of the Devil's personnel have gone as high as "A" ball.

Such familiar names to followers of minor league ball are listed on the roster of the Petersburg are Tony Nozzi, a second baseman of capability; Charley King, an outfielder of note; Tom Hoffner, the club's slugger; Len Phillips and Jim McKeen, the one-two punch of the mound corps; and Augie Augello, top-flight catcher.

Another hurler of promise listed among the Petersburg roster is Earl Foytack, brother of the Detroit Tigers' Paul Foytack.

Diehards in the Scranton area rate the Petersburg nine of Joe Wirth the best in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties. Maybe this is true from an anthracite area viewpoint.

But this writer has other views and they don't exactly coincide with the claims of the Petersburg followers.

We've got a ball club in this town that on a day by day basis could give a more than adequate account of themselves in "D" ball.

The Stroud's lineup is saturated with young blood—five 18-year-olds or under—a mixture of experience and the guiding hand of Radler.

Up to this writing (excluding last night's encounter with Johnsonville of the Bi-State League) the Strouds have gone through eight opponents in eight games.

Headed by mound ace Bill Sommers and an all-around defensive and offensive array of good material, Radler's crew have been extended only once this year.

From our vantage point it's pretty good roster that has swept by all foes. Russ Staples, a good handler of twirlers around; smooth and smart first baseman Danny Eppey; youthful Dick Gray at second; the good "Doctor" Lim at short; groundskeeper Al McCormick at third; power-hitting Randy Morris, perennial base-runner Snooky Litts and clutch-player Dave Nevil, outfielders, are the regulars. And a better array hasn't shown themselves, thus far, this season, hereabouts.

There is no doubt in our mind that sometime along the way the Strouds will be knocked off. It could be the bottom club in the Pocono Mountain or it could come from any number of teams. That's what makes baseball the great game it is. The poor rise on occasions and dust off the leaders, thereby showing no team is invincible.

But over the season Radler and his men will show up more times in the win column than not.

Maybe the idols of Scranton and vicinity will find out next Friday at Schadt Stadium when the Strouds and Devils collide.

Strouds Tab 9th Straight Diamond Win

JOHNSONVILLE—The Strouds registered their ninth consecutive win of the season, squeezing by Johnsonville 5-4 in an exhibition game here last night.

The Strouds got what proved to be the winning run in the top of the seventh when Ron Phillips singled and rode home on Al McCormick's two-base hit.

Harold Jacobsen started on the mound for Frank Radler's unbeaten Pocono Mountain League pacesetter and had a three-hitter going until the seventh when the Bi-State League entrants put him on the hook. However,

Rosburg Takes Open Lead As Burke Escapes Expulsion

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—Two internationally famous golfers—England's Henry Cotton and Masters champion Jack Burke—escaped disqualification today as a succession of ruckuses marred the first round of the National Open Golf Tournament.

Bob Rosburg, a spectacled, 29-year-old former Stanford athlete from Palo Alto, Calif., shot into the lead with a two-under-par 68, two strokes better than Australia's Peter Thomson, but these developments were overshadowed by a series of rules meetings.

At times the Oak Hill Country Club course resembled a heated session of the United Nations.

PGA champion Doug Ford also got into dire straits with the rules committee when he dropped a ball and then abandoned it on one hole, but he got out with only a two-stroke penalty.

He had come in with a 69 for second place, the only other man to crack Oak Hill's tough par 70, but the USGA brass pushed his score up to 71.

Burke faced disqualification for signing an improper scorecard—an act which normally brings automatic suspension. He apologized a card giving him a 75 when he actually had a 76.

He had refused to check the card at the 18th hole, saying "I'm too tired."

The rules committee, invoking a rule of leniency for the first time in its history in such a case, refused to erase Burke completely but instead assessed him two extra strokes, giving the Masters champion a 78 instead of 76.

Cotton was called on the carpet for allegedly stroking his ball twice while running in a putt on the 17th green. Some said he took a 6 there. Cotton insisted he had a 5.

After more than two hours' deliberation, the USGA rules committee said they would take the word of the English master and his scorer. His score was allowed to stand at 74. He also could have been disqualified for signing an improper card.

Burke took his medicine manfully.

"The girl scorer gave me a 4 on the 18th when I took a 5," he said. "They asked me to double check it."

but I told them I was too tired. It was my fault."

Ford's troubles happened on the 10th where he hit his second shot into what he thought was the creek. Thinking the ball was lost, he dropped another. Then the original ball was found by the gallery in a playable position, and Ford played it. He picked up the dropped ball.

He was penalized two strokes under the rule governing the act of taking a ball out of play. He could have been disqualified, officials said, on the grounds that he twice abandoned balls which had been put in play.

Earlier, Walker Inman from Augusta, Ga., was penalized two strokes and sent to the bottom of the field to play alone, when he arrived at the tee some 30 minutes late. He also could have been disqualified.

Leniency of the USGA brass kept this from being the darkest day in this blue ribbon championship since 1940 at Cleveland when six prominent players were booted out of the tournament for starting the final round early to avoid a thunderstorm. One of the players, Ed (Porky) Oliver, went on to shoot a 287 which would have tied Lawson Little and Gene Sarazen for the title.

Hogan at 72
Ben Hogan, shooting for his fifth Open championship on weary legs, remained in the thick of contention with a steady 72, four strokes off the pace, while many of the game's brightest stars shot themselves out of it.

After Rosburg's 68 and Thomson's 70, came seven players at 71, including three former champions, Dr. Cary Middlecoff (1949), Julius Boros (1962) and lamed-armed Ed Furgol (1954). Also in the 71 bracket were Eddie Ball of Oak Park, Ill., an English-born professional of 45; Wesley Ellis of River Vale, N. J., an unknown 24-year-old pro; Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla.; and Ford.

Pocono Lake Ups Lead; Barrett Teams Post Wins

POCONO LAKE upped their lead in the Pocono Mountain Little League last night by defeating second place Tannersville 4-1 on the losers diamond. (No boxscore was available).

In other contests Barrett Rotary swamped Tobyhanna 26-0 and Barrett Lions edged Mount Pocono Rotary 11-9.

Barrett Lions came up with four runs in the last inning to take the measure of Mount Pocono.

Jerry Reilly paced the Lions with three hits, including a homer. Berger got credit for the mound win, while Cullen took the loss.

One of the features of the tilt was a fielding catch by grab of a long drive by the Lions' Mike Shepard. The losers' Will Treon also thrilled the crowd with a long throw to the plate to nip a Barrett baserunner.

D. Shaller Stars
Don Schaller pitched and batted Barrett Rotary to its second victory in seven games as the Rotarians mauled visiting Tobyhanna.

Schaller blanked Tobyhanna on four hits and collected five-for-five, including a homer and three doubles. J. Ryan shared the batting offense with the Rotary hurler, also garnering five-for-five, including a triple. T. Young chipped in with four-for-four as the trio collected 14 of the 23-hit attack.

The loss was Tobyhanna's fourth in six outings.

LM Notches 16-1 Victory In Babe Ruth

BARRETT—Line Material made its opening outing in the Stroudsburg-Barratt Babe Ruth League a successful one last night by romping to a 16-1 victory over Barrett here.

An eight-run outburst in the opening inning started Line Material on the way to victory. The winners added three more in the second, two each in the third and fourth and one in the fifth to win going away. Barrett scored its only tally in the fourth.

Charley Lupin hurled the triumph, holding the host nine to two hits. He also led his mates at the plate with a pair of safeties.

President of the university, Cloyd H. Marvin, conferred the degrees and delivered the charge to the graduates. He reminded them that the fulfillment of the eternal plan for the world is dependent upon the contributions of all men. "Remember, there can be no duration unless even the smallest act of each one of us has its place within the infinite," he said.

Business Column

Bartholomew Honored By Company

PAUL Bartholomew, special agent of the Massachusetts Protective Assoc. and the Paul Revere Life Insurance Co., was signally honored on Monday of this week when he attended a luncheon at the Yachtman's Club in Philadelphia. Bartholomew was cited for having led the Philadelphia Agency and District in the production of new business during the month of May, said month of May having been known as President's Month, a special drive month for new production. Bartholomew maintains offices at his home in East Stroudsburg. He has been active in the Accident and Health and Life Insurance fields for over 10 years.

Bartholomew's many associates, customers, and friends will be happy to learn about this latest honor that has been accorded to him. The Philadelphia District led the entire nation among their companies for business persistency testifying to the excellent response of their clientele to renewal on their strictly Non-can guaranteed renewable contracts.

"The Fabric Mart," Monroe County's newest fabric fashion center, opened this week at 86 S. Courtland St. (Grand Theater Building) East Stroudsburg. Mrs. Frank Meyers of 69 N. Green St., East Stroudsburg, is the owner-manager of this new business enterprise.

The Fabric Mart will carry a complete line of materials for dress making and sewing projects of all types. Associated lines carried are Simplicity Patterns and all types of sewing notions. The store is now completely stocked with fabrics and materials for summer and warm weather dress. Shipments of new fall fabrics will be arriving shortly.

Philip Farber has joined Weichel Buick Co. as a sales representative. He was announced yesterday by Robert L. Weichel, owner.

Farber recently sold his Cherry Valley Inn to the Robert Melicks. He had operated the inn since 1945, when he purchased the property, formerly known as Cherry Valley House, from Mrs. Ethel LaBar.

He and his wife and son, Philip III, are now residing in the former Kellerman home in Delaware Water Gap. Mrs. Farber's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lehr, have been lifelong residents of Delaware Water Gap.

Farber, a native of Carbondale, came to Monroe County in 1939 and was employed by the Giant Markets for six years. He has been a member of the Water Gap Council 12 years and its president since January. He and Harold Lightner were the prime movers behind the borough's Memorial Park.

Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. commercial offices will no longer be open Saturdays, beginning June 16. H. M. Scheiden, the utility's Lehigh division vice president, announced yesterday. Regular hours for the commercial offices will now be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, except for specified holidays.

The change in office hours will in no way inconvenience customers in making telephone reports concerning service. Present arrangements for handling "after hours" telephone calls have been extended to include Saturday morning.

Scheiden explained the primary reason for the change in office hours is to standardize work schedules of employees of the commercial offices with those of employees in the other business offices of the company. The move also recognizes that customer use of PP&L commercial offices on Saturday mornings has dwindled in recent years.

The Avis rent-a-car system, with regional offices in Scranton, this week added the Pocono resort region to its area of operations.

Joseph Cerone, of Mount Pocono, was appointed station manager in that community.

Penn Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg, is one of a group of Eastern Pennsylvania hotels utilizing anthracite as a heating fuel which were honored this week by the Northeastern Pennsylvania Development Commission. Good citizenship awards were presented to the hotels by Victor C. Diehn, president of NPDC.

Recognition to the hotels for supporting the economy of the state came in the form of an award certificate suitable for display.

EDWARD R. MURROW makes his 250th "Person to Person" visit tonight (Channels 2 & 10 at 10:30 p.m.). He'll call on radio and television's husband and wife team, Tex McCrary and Jinx Falkenberg, and their two children from their 150-year-old Manhasset, L. I., home. He'll also visit travel writer Richard Joseph, his wife, Morgan, and their daughter from their Westport, Conn., home.

"Crossroads," seen over Channels 6 and 7 at 8:30 p.m., presents "The Singing Preacher" tonight. It is a documentary style drama based on facts about a Navy chaplain who kept the morale up by singing ballads on the high seas. Rev. John Evans, young Episcopal rector played by Dick Foran, is called upon to save and adjust the life of a young sailor, wounded in a fight with a jealous stevedore.

Victor Borge, the comedian- pianist who presented his "Comedy of Music" on Channels 2 and 10 last night, was extremely impressed, at the age of six, that all of the famous musicians he had seen were bald-headed. He also took note of the fact that his own music instructor was bald-headed. So, at his next big concert ("I was one of those little nuisances known as child prodigies") young Borge followed suit and shaved his own head just before going onstage!

Cherif Hamis of Paris and Miguel Berries of Puerto Rico meet in a 10-round featherweight bout tonight at Madison Square Garden. Channels 3 and 4 will telecast the first at 10 p.m.

The baseball scene shifts tonight, with two games scheduled at 7:55 p.m. Ch. 9 will telecast the Dodgers-Braves game at Ebbets Field, and Ch. 11 will bring the Giants-Reds contest from the Polo Grounds.

What promises to be three fine plays are scheduled at the same time tonight — 9:30. Channels 3 and 4 present "U. S. Vs. Alexander Holmes" on "Star Stage," Channels 6 and 7 offer "Blood in the Sky" on "The Vise" and Channels 2 and 10 bring "Pattern for Pursuit" over "Playhouse of Stars."

FATHER'S DAY

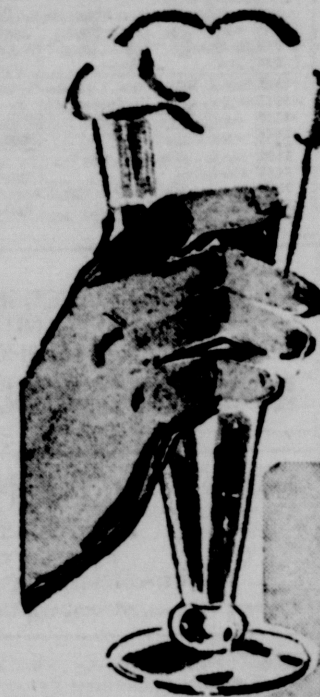

Every Father thinks of Father's Day in terms of his own children and their welfare. That is why so many fathers open individual savings accounts for their children; teaching them the value of planned spending and systematic saving; building self-reliance and leading to a future of financial independence. For this unselfish spirit, we honor the fathers of our community.

Here's How*

today's Old Dutch gets its Distinctive Flavor . . .

BOILING WORT in a gleaming copper brew kettle is the first step in the actual brewing process of delicious Old Dutch Beer. At this stage, the finest hops are added to the sparkling clean boiling wort and the entire mixture boils or percolates until just the right flavor and consistency for that better Old Dutch Beer is obtained. This phase of the brewing process is perhaps the most important in producing that beer with the flavor you really enjoy . . . Old Dutch Premium Beer. The photo shows Tom Montgomery, Old Dutch brewmaster, taking a sample of the hot wort for analysis and examination.

Jehovah's Witnesses Keep Pace

ONE OF THE fastest-growing ministerial societies never graduates its ministers. "Christian development never ends and the Christian minister can always advance in ministerial qualifications." There are Jehovah's witnesses.

For that reason the organization provides a continuous training program of activity for young and old. A featured part of that program is to be a three-day conference of Jehovah's Witnesses, scheduled this weekend in Lehighton. Their spokesman is Fred Severud, presiding minister of the East Stroudsburg congregation.

"Since their beginning Jehovah's witnesses have been a preaching fellowship," Mr. Severud said. "The faith of each believing Christian in the organization is tested by his participation in the most important Christian activity—propagation of the faith."

"By plying this method," Mr. Severud continued, "during the past 10 years the witnesses have doubled their numbers in North America, multiplied five times in Asia, more than six times in the Pacific Islands, seven times in Europe and Africa, more than 12 times in the Atlantic Islands and nearly fifteen times in South America."

Stimulation

"As a stimulation to the preaching methods of the witnesses the Lehighton program carries the theme 'Be Rich in Right Works.' This will provide the background for the advanced course planned," Mr. Severud said.

"The program is really an extension of and a refresher for the regular training program conducted in all congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses," Mr. Severud explained. "One of the requirements for every Christian that is set forth in the Bible is that he be 'apt to teach,'" he said.

"That means he must not only be well grounded in the Bible but he must be acquainted with the techniques of preaching. Jesus took the apostles with him on his tour of Galilee, where they could observe his teaching. Then he sent them out by two's and later, after training others, sent out seventy others by two's."

"Jesus told his disciples, 'Freely you have received, give freely,' and Jehovah's Witnesses believe that this applies to their Christian knowledge as much as to anything else. Jesus made the statement when he was sending his followers out to preach."

Regular Schedule

According to Mr. Severud Jehovah's Witnesses conduct a regular schedule of five weekly classes in all their congregations. Their object is to develop each believer into a preacher. Two classes are conducted as advanced studies of the Bible, another is to improve speech and speaking ability with practice sermons given by the students enrolled. Another is a ministry-improvement class, where problems of the ministry are discussed. The fifth meeting is a public sermon on a timely Bible subject.

"After a new student expresses his willingness and dedicates himself to do God's will as Jesus did," Mr. Severud said, "he is assisted in practical field ministry by being assigned to a mature minister, who assists him in developing his preaching ability."

All the features of the regular training program will be covered at the Lehighton assembly, Mr. Severud said. "However, these meetings will be under the direction of Mr. Carey Barber, District Supervisor, a special representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society sent out from New York."

The Lehighton program scheduled for June 15-17 will draw about 30 ministers from the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg area according to Mr. Severud. In addition, a number of car groups of interested persons are planning to attend the sessions, all of which are open to the public.

Hundreds of other witnesses, representing 19 surrounding congregations, along with an unestimated number of the public, will be present. The climax of the assembly will feature a public Bible discourse entitled "Consulting God on World Affairs," Sunday, June 17, at 3 p.m.
